TurnerDonovan Military Books Catalogue No. 200 "Messines" - March 2025

This is my first full catalogue of the year. It contains a selection of good quality material in most of the customary subject areas and I hope that you will find something to interest you.

We are leading dealers in rare and second hand books on British military history from around 1800 to 1945. The Great War, 1914-1918, has always been our speciality and we hold extensive stocks of regimental and divisional histories, official histories, standard works, memoirs, Rolls of Honour, Army Lists and so forth.

A further selection of stock can be viewed on our fully searchable website

79. CALLWELL (Maj.-Gen. Sir C.E.) Experiences of a Dug-Out 1914-1918.

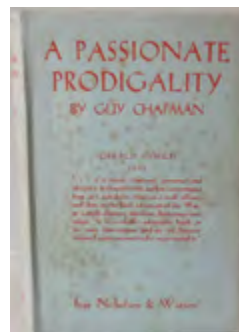

1st Ed., xvii+339pp., frontis. Constable. 1920

One of the retired officers recalled in 1914 to fill the gap made at the War Office by the rush of the staff to the front, becoming Director of Military Operations. Falls (awarding a coveted two stars) explains: "When the Staff at the War Office was so inadvisedly permitted to rush out to France in 1914, a number of officers who had already retired were called up to take the place of these knights-errant. One of these 'dug-outs,' Sir Charles Callwell, became Director of Military Operations. A witty & attractive writer, he is here at his best. From the point of view of high policy his record is not of first-class importance, but it gives the atmosphere of the War Office under the shadow of 'K' very well. His missions to Russia are also interesting." Orig. red cloth, gilt, nice clean copy with bookplate of Sir John Gretton of Stapleford. [Ref: 61783] £50

81. [CHARTERIS (Hon. Evan)] H.Q. Tanks 1917-1918.

1st Ed., [iii]+94pp. Privately Printed. 1920

Bound photocopy reproduction of the rarest of the Tank Men's memoirs (allegedly, & as recorded in the Liddell Harts papers at KCL, just 20 copies were printed) most informative on the conduct & course of the Battle of Cambrai as seen from Tank Corps HQ. Hon. Evan Charteris (1864-1940), a younger son of the 10th Earl of Wemyss, was Ed, at Eton, commissioned in the Coldstream Guards but proceeded to Balliol & practiced at the Parliamentary Bar. A man of affairs, he was Chairman of the Trustees of the National Portrait Gallery, a Trustee of the National Gallery & of the Wallace Collection. In 1916 he became a Staff Captain in the RFC then GSO III in the Tank Corps from Aug. 1916 to Jan. 1918. He resigned his commission in April 1918. The author of several historical works, he did not, however, include this privately printed volume in the list of published works submitted for his "Who's Who" entry. The book was published privately & anonymously. It covers the period July 1917-January 1918, when the author was GSO3 at Tank HQ with the role of historian of the Tank Corps. J.F.C. Fuller, in the Introduction to 'Tanks in the Great War,' thanks Charteris "for the accurate & careful records of the Corps which he compiled from the earliest days of the tank movement in 1914, to the close of the battle of Cambrai. Many of these were written under, shall I say, far from luxurious circumstances, in his shell-blasted estaminets, less well cared for than the rats of Albert & as much out of place as Alciabeades in a Peckham parlor." He continues: "The two G.S.O.s were Captain the Hon. Evan Charteris & Captain I.M. Stewart, M.C. Charteris was the 'Arbiter Elegantarum' of our Headquarters. He kept the Corps records, as already stated, & without these it would scarcely have been possible to write this history. he was our 'maitre d'hotel'; he gave us beach nut bacon & honey for breakfast, he kept his weather eye open for a one-armed man, elaborated menus which rivalled those of Trimalchio, & gave sparkle to us all by the ripple of his wit." For his part, Charteris offers an illuminating description of J.F.C. Fuller (called Evans in this work): "I moved up to the neighbourhood of Ypres... Here I found the whole of the H.Q. Staff, & first made acquaintance with Evans, the G.S.O.1 of the Tank Corps - G.S.O.1 & brain. A little man, with a bald head, & a sharp face & a nose of a Napoleonic cast, his general appearance, stature, & feature earning him the title of Boney. He stood out at once as a totally unconventional soldier, prolific in ideas, fluent in expression, at daggers drawn with received opinion, authority, & tradition. In the mess his attacks on the red-tabbed hierarchy were viewed in the spirit of a rat hunt; a spirit he responded to with much vivacity & no little wit. But he could talk amusingly & paradoxically on any subject. His specialities were Eastern religions, about which he could be bewildering, spiritualism, occultism, military history & the theory of war... He was an inexhaustible writer, & from his office issued reams on reams about training, plans of campaign, organisation, & schemes for the use of tanks. He was an invaluable element from a military & social point of view, but his brains would have been better utilised at G.H.Q. galvanising that conservative centre with advanced ideas..." 1st Ed., 233pp., 7 illus. (inc. attractive col. frontis. of his Memorial Scroll, several portraits & his original 'propeller' wooden grave marker), 2 maps. Privately Printed. 1924

Gordon Strachy Shephard, formerly of the Royal Fusiliers, was an early entrant to the fledgling Royal Flying Corps and went to France with No. 4 Squadron in 1914. He later commanded, in succession, Nos.

10 and 6 Squadrons, then 8 and 12 Wings on the Western Front. He was killed in an accident on 19th January 1918, aged thirty-two, and his grave is in Lapugnoy Military Cemetery. Contains an account of his youth at Summerfields & Eton, much on pre-war yachting but also an account of his service career & extracts from letters from France 1914-17 + list of sorties undertaken in 1914. Orig. paper covd. boards with cloth backstrip, labels to front & sp., VG & rare with neat ink presentation inscrip. from the compiler: "Oswald Birley from Shane Leslie." Note: Sir Shane Leslie, 3rd Baronet, was an Irish born diplomat & writer, cousin of Winston Churchill & supporter of Irish Home Rule. During the war he served in an Ambulance Corps until invalided out, when he was sent to Washington to help the British ambassador obtain American intervention in the war. He was a contemporary of Gordon Shephard at Eton which presumably accounts for him writing this memoir. The recipient, Sir Oswald Hornby Joseph Birley, MC, was a portrait painter favoured by the Royal Family who painted, inter al, George V, George VI, Queen Mary, The late Queen Mother & Queen Elizabeth II; also Winston Churchill & many other distinguished figures of his time. He was father of Mark & grandfather of Robin Birley of Annabel's fame. A copy with most interesting provenance. [Ref: 68281] £250

112. LINTIER (Paul) My Seventy-Five: Journal of a French Gunner (August-September 1914).

1st Eng. Ed., With a Foreword by Marshal Joffre, xxv+212pp., 8 plates, ep map. Davies. 1929 Classic French account of 1914 in the ranks of an artillery unit armed with the famous 75mm. Battles of the Marne, Aisne &c. Author was KiA 1916. "Lintier, a young field artilleryman doing his service when war broke out, kept a journal until the 22nd September [1914] when he was wounded, which is among the finest documents of its kind ever published. He is one of the few writers whose powers of description & of self-analysis are equally great. His battery was in the French IV Corps, & took part in the disastrous action of Virton. The details of the defeat, the pictures of the shaken infantry & of the roads blocked by fleeing country people, are wonderfully good. But defeat was not to be his sole experience. The exhausted battery was suddenly entrained with its division & moved through Paris to the left flank, where it formed part of General Maunoury's Army, & on the 9th September for the first time 'got its own back' firing over open sights upon the enemy in mass. Then came the wild joy when it was discovered that the enemy had broken off the action. The advance to the Aisne followed. Just before Lintier was wounded there was another desperate action, in the course of which the battery was firing at a range of 800 metres. On returning to the front Lintier kept another journal, which was found on his body when he fell in action." - Falls. 1st Ed., 194pp., 228x150mm, portrait frontis., 10 plates (including leaf from a sketchbook & 4 drawings by the subject). Grant Richards Ltd. 1921

George Calderon, author & playwright, was born in 1868 & educated at Rugby & Trinity College, Oxford. He was called to the Bar, studied at St Petersburg & worked in the British Museum Library from 1900-1903; thereafter he devoted all his efforts to family life, writing & producing plays, travel, sketching & so forth. He went to Flanders as an interpreter with the Royal Horse Guards on 5th October 1914 and in the same month received a (rather irregular) battlefield commission in the 2nd Battalion Royal Warwickshire Regiment; he later transferred to the Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry & was attached to the 1st Battalion King's Own Scottish Borderers at Gallipoli where, in an attack on 4th June 1915, he was posted missing and is commemorated on the Helles Memorial. He was forty-six years old. Contains an account of his life drawing, the recollections of several friends, with extracts from letters written from Flanders during the First Battle of Ypres, when having arranged an attachment to the Warwicks he was wounded the same day that he adopted their badges and "burnt my interpreter's brassard." Recovering at home, he was officially commissioned in the Ox. and Bucks., then posted to the Dardanelles & attached to the K.O.S.B. as a platoon commander on arrival about 27th May. Letters describe his journey, arrival & brief service with the battalion, covering some dozen or so pages. Orig. blue cloth, gilt to sp. & front, VG & rare memoir. [Ref: 68286] £225

116. MAXWELL (Mrs C.) Frank Maxwell, Brig.-General, VC, CSI, DSO: A Memoir & Some Letters.

Edited by His Wife. 1st Ed., xi+228pp., 5 plates, 2 sketches. dw. Murray. 1921

Francis Aylmer Maxwell was born in 1871, Ed. at the United Service College at Westward Ho! & Sandhurst. In 1891 he joined the Royal Sussex Regiment in India for a year before his appointment to the Indian Army, initially to the 24th Punjab Inf. His first active service was in the Tochi Valley in 1895, then in the Chitral Relief Expedition when he was attached to the Guides Cavalry. During this campaign he was recommended for the VC. The following year, 1896, he transferred to the 18th Lancers, saw further active service on the North-West Frontier including A.D.C. to his uncle, Gen. Sir William Lockhart, in the Tirah Expedition, after which he was awarded the DSO. He was attached to Roberts' Horse in South Africa during the Boer War, when he was awarded the V.C. for gallantry at Sannah's Post. He was A.D.C. to Lord Kitchener (who bestowed on him the nickname "The Brat") & Military Secretary to Lord Hardinge. In 1916 he was posted to France & given command of the 12th (S) Bn., Middlesex Regiment – a New Army unit that had failed to perform & required firm leadership to bring it up to standard. Under Maxwell's command the battalion was transformed, doing well on the Somme including the capture of Trônes Wood & Thiepval. Maxwell received a bar to the DSO & command of the 27th Infantry Brigade, 9th (Scottish) Division. He was killed in action on 21st Sept. 1917 while personally undertaking a reconnaissance in No-Man's-Land. He is buried in Ypres Reservoir Cemetery. Excellent memorial to a fine soldier, based on his letters from various campaigns, including the Western Front 1916-17. Orig. red cloth, gilt, 18th Lancers (IA) crest to front, also that of Imperial Service College & bookplate recording that one R.G. Levett was awarded the Frank Maxwell Prize for 1936. 125. PEAT (Harold R.) Private Peat.

1st Ed., [x]+235pp., portrait frontis., 15 photos., 2 sketch maps. VG in dw. Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill. 1917
First-hand account of service with the 3rd Bn., 1st Canadian Contingent in F&F until wounded at Ypres. Orig. brown cloth, titled in white, VG in chipped, attractive dw bearing a portrait of the author above the strapline "Two years in Hell & back with a smile." The back panel of the jacket is basically an exhortation to Americans to enlist in the American Army then being formed for service in Europe. It includes such fantastical statements as "Don't picture your son choking & writhing in a gas attack. The universal use of gas masks has made that devilish German innovation about as harmless as a morning mist." Yeah, right. [Ref: 68260] £50

127. PLATTS (Jessie) The Witness.

1st Ed., 288pp., 2 portraits. VG in dw. Hutchinson & Co. nd (c.1924)
Jessie Platts lost two sons in action: Capt. John Carrick Platts, att'd. 10th Lancers, Indian Army, who was KiA in a cavalry charge in Iraq in 1920 & Lieut. Edgar Lovell Filmer Platts, RMLI, who was wounded in 1916 at Beaumont Hamel & KiA near Gavrelle on 28th April 1917 when still under 18 years of age. This is explained in a short biographical Foreword, but the vast majority of the work consists of "a series of messages" in which Edgar "describes after-death conditions & life in the spirit world." The messages were recorded on paper through the medium of their mother's hand during 1918, after which the spirit perhaps ran out of imaginative new things to say. A triumph of belief of which Sir Arthur Conan Doyle said: "The best I have read, and I have read a good many." Orig. blue cloth, gilt, VG in chipped/rubbed dw, little damage to inner front joint, still nice copy. [Ref: 68216] £65

129. POULTON (Edward B.) The Life of Ronald Poulton.

By His Father. 1st Ed., xi+410pp., portrait frontis., 17 plates. S&J. 1918 Memorial to Lt. R.W. Poulton-Palmer, a Balliol man & one of the most promising Rugby players of his generation, heir to the Huntley & Palmer biscuit fortunes & also deeply involved with the boys clubs movement. He held a commission in the 1/4th Berks. (TF) & was KiA at Ploegsteert Wood. Includes a substantial & detailed biography followed by around 30pp. extracts from his wartime journal (kept from 30th March-24th April 1915) & letters written during his brief service in Flanders, mainly around Ploegsteert, followed by accounts of his death (he was hit by a bullet while in charge of a working party, superintending the completion of a dugout, during the night of 4th/5th May) & burial on 6th May contributed by several officers & men of his battalion. Orig. blue cloth, gilt, little dusty, generally VG with presentation inscrip. "To Evelyn Wells with the Author's warmest thanks for her kind help. In memory of our three dear ones gone before - very dear to her as well as to us. Oxford, Nov. 28, 1919." [Ref: 68215] £145

130. PRIESTMAN (E.Y.) With a B-P Scout in Gallipoli: A Record of the Belton Bulldogs.

1st Ed., xv+311pp., portrait frontis., 4 plates, num. sketches. Routledge. 1916 Memoir, letters and sketches of Lt. Edmund Yerbury Priestman (born 1890), Scoutmaster of the 16th (Westbourne) Sheffield Boy Scouts. He was commissioned October 1914 in the 6th (S) Bn. York & Lancaster Regiment, trained at Belton Park & Godalming then went to Gallipoli with the battalion: landed Suvla Bay in August 1915 & was KiA on 19th Nov. when, whilst engaged in improving a front line position at night, his party was rushed & wiped out by the Turks. The next night the position was recaptured and Priestman's body was recovered. The recaptured position was renamed Priestman's Post in honour of his gallant defence. He was buried in Hill 10 Cemetery, Gallipoli. Orig. green cloth, gilt, VG. [Ref: 58708] £75

132. QUEx [Pseud. of NICHOLS (Capt. G.H.F., RFA)] Pushed.

2nd Ed., 336pp., 2 maps. Constable. 1930

Fine personal account of March Retreat & Allied Advance in 1918, serving with 82nd Bde. RFA, 18th Divisional Artillery. The author (who also authored the history of the 18th Division in the war) was dedicated to his Colonel - Thorp, who commanded the Battery throughout the events described in this work until Killed in Action on 30th October 1918: the news of the death of the beloved Colonel occupies the last few leaves of the text. "Below the title on the copy of this book before the writer, some irreverent spirit has pencilled a sub-title, 'or, I and the Colonel.' The well-known journalist known as 'Quex' does not, in fact, hide his light under a bushel. He has, however, written a most entertaining account of a battery of the 18th Divisional Artillery in the German offensive of 1918 & of the great British 'return push.'" - Falls. Orig. blue cloth, titled in black, sp. tanned. First published 1919: this new edition includes a short Introductory Letter by R.C. Sherrieff & two maps (the 18th Div. sector in March 1918 & the division's attack on the Hindenburg Line at Vendhuille at the end of September) not in the original 1919 1st edition. 133. REDDAN (William J., Capt., 114th Infantry) Other Men's Lives (Experiences of a Doughboy) 1917-1919.

1st Ed., x+341pp., portrait frontis., 12 photos. Published by the Author, Bloomfield, NJ. 1936
An excellent personal memoir cum Company history (author commanded B Coy. of the 114th Infantry, 29th Div.) with Roll of Hon. & complete nominal roll of unit. Among other events the author addresses the Battle of Ormont Farm & Wood on 12th Oct. 1918 during the Meuse-Argonne offensive when the Coy. suffered its heaviest casualties. As he states in his Foreword: "In November, 1918, a telegram was sent to a United States Senator requesting an investigation to be made, as, 'something went wrong in the 114th Infantry, at Ormont Farm.' It is hoped that this book will serve to answer that telegram as well as to demonstrate the adverse conditions under which we served, terminating in a 'reckless exposure of infantry,' as recorded in the German field reports of our attack on Bois de Ormont." An engaging work. Orig. red cloth, gilt, VG. [Ref: 68297] £45

134. RIGGLES (Logan E., US Navy) The Part the U.S.S. Von Steuben Played in the Great War.

136. ROSE (Mme. Marie) Pseud. Marie du Coin: The True Experiences of a French Girl Who Lived During the Great War in a Town in the War Area.

1st Ed., orig. dec. wraps., 47pp. Newcastle-on-Tyne: R. Ward & Sons, Printers. 1929
The narrator was a the daughter of the strict matriarch of a well established family in Hazebrouck who ran a popular cafe/estaminet, where she grew up. She records the coming of troops, first German, then French, then English. A CCS sprang up nearby, RAMC doctors were billeted at the cafe, the town was occupied until the debacle of 1918 when the town was shelled & all left. Returning in April the family found the cafe surrounded by barbed wire & barricades; the town remained occupied & she became engaged to & then married an RAMC sergeant & moved to England after the armistice, presumably to Newcastle as this work was printed there. Orig. printed wraps., little dusty, staples rusted, o/w VG, inscribed: "To Monsieur and Madame Logan with the compliments of the authoress Madame Yvonne Perkins 19 Sept. 1931." An unusual account of the occupation by a local civilian. [Ref: 68224] £65

139. SHORT (Capt. Walter, BA) Pictures from France.

Walter Short was born in Sheffield in 1879. He began a business career in the Goods Department of the Midland Railway Company. His religious zeal was embraced in Methodism and he joined the Upper Chapel at Sheffield, becoming a lay preacher. Ultimately this led to his admission to the Unitarian Home Missionary College in Manchester; he graduated B.A. at Manchester University and became Minister of the Unitarian Church at Stalybridge in 1909. He married the same year and a son was born in 1910. In 1912 he moved to the Unitarian Free Church at Bootle. In November 1915 he joined the Inns of Court O.T.C. and precisely one year later received a commission in the 3rd (Special Reserve) Battalion, King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry. He served in France with the 7th (Service) Battalion from 17th January 1917, becoming Adjutant in August. This battalion was disbanded in February 1918 and Short was killed in action on 20th July that year (during the Champagne Offensive) as a Captain commanding "A" Company in the 5th (Service) Battalion. He was thirty-nine and lies in Courmas Military Cemetery. Contains a memoir and his letters "To the Congregation" at Bootle from his enlistment through to the time of his death in 1918. The letters include much interesting detail on his experiences on active service, followed by letters of condolence from his Commanding Officer and another officer of the Battalion (unidentified) "who buried Captain Short on the battlefield on July 20th, 1918" and who describes the manner of his passing: "As I was the last to see Captain Short alive I feel it is my bounden duty, painful though it is, to describe the situation. He was wounded in the left arm about 10 a.m. on the 20th inst by machine gun fire which swept the advance of our troops. This wound was bandaged but owing to the activities of the enemy it was impossible to have the wounded taken away. In trying to get back many were fired upon again and your dear husband was again hit on the left side... I stopped and spoke to him... Kneeling beside him he looked up and in a faint voice (with a heavenly smile on his handsome face) he said, 'I'm done for old boy. Give my love to —.' I pressed his hand in a last farewell. The sentence was never finished, but well was the meaning known... He is buried alongside another officer and men of the battalion in a cornfield near by a vineyard with beautiful woods on two sides and a picturesque French village on another. (I saw him buried myself)..." Orig. maroon cloth, gilt, VG. [Ref: 68301] £145

146. TILSLEY (W.V.) Other Ranks.

With an Intro. by Edmund Blunden. 1st Ed., xiv+269pp. VG in worn dw. Cobden-Sanderson. 1931
Fine third-person account of life in the infantry in France & Flanders closely based on author's service as a private soldier, with a glowing endorsement as to its mood & authenticity by Blunden. The author was Cpl. William Vincent Tilsley, who enlisted in the Manchester Regt., served with it, & later 1/4th

Loyal North Lancs. in 55th (West Lancs.) Div., in France, & who was MID LG 25/5/1917. In the battalion history he is listed as serving with 'C' Coy. & wounded on 20/9/1917 (Battle of the Menin Road). He provides a very true to life account of the infantryman's experience of battle, as well as behind the lines, including a year in the Ypres Salient. Orig. black cloth, gilt, about VG in rare but worn & repaired dw. An interesting copy with author's presentation inscription: "To Ethel & Herbert - for so painstakingly typing the original draft of this Chronicle - with compliments and kind regards. Maps & appendices to Part I: Includes reproductions of Hamilton's, Birdwood's & other subordinate commanders' orders for the original landings, Battle of Krithia &c. Excellent & widely acclaimed history of which Falls states "No serious student of the War can avoid reading this book... he will find this no imposition, for the book is easily & attractively written." Orig. red cloth, gilt, VG in sl. chipped & marked but scarce dw with bold ink presentation inscription from the author: "Alan Moorehead with all good wishes from Cecil Aspinall-Oglander. These maps were prepared by - though not actually drawn by - Major A.F. Becke, I'm ashamed to see his name does not appear. Vol. II also." Note: Doubtless given to Moorehead by Aspinall-Oglander while the former was writing his classic account of the campaign published in 1956. The author's regret at the absence of Becke's name on this volume affirms the value placed upon the latter's work. It should be added that Becke's name did appear on the title pages of both the text volumes. Interesting copy. [Ref: 61087] £165

163. JUTLAND: Souvenir of the Victory of Jutland, May 31st 1916.

Attractive souvenir piece printed by one of the foremost makers of work of this type during the early part of the 20th Century (of Prussian origin, ironically). Sl. frayed at edges, VG overall, colours remain bright & clear, this example notable in that it is, most unusually, signed by Admiral Jellicoe - commander of the Grand Fleet during this epic naval battle of the Great War & arguably the victor - in indelible pencil in the field below the printed date of the action. A rather fine collectable piece. [Ref: 68382] £250 engineer captured at Dieppe & a committed escaper: the description to accompany his portrait, provided by Capt. Pemberton How, stated "Jerry [Wood] never let up in Germany & in a most extraordinary way mixed studying with escaping. Jerry was often to be seen disappearing into a tunnel with tools in one hand a German Grammar in the other. In this way he wasted no time... a great character... one of the most popular personalities of the camp." In the Acknowledgements the compiler explains that printing & binding was undertaken by No. 2 GHQ Press RASC of the P&SS, HQ, BAOR.
