INDIA

6. Frontier Warfare - India (Army & Royal Air Force). 1st Ed., [iii]+vii+229pp., fldg. map & 8 fldg. diagrams. New Delhi: Govt. of India Press. 1939
Published by Authority, "This manual is concerned with military operations against the tribesmen of the unadministered tribal territory which lies between the Indo-Afghan frontier - often termed the Durand line - on the west & the administrative border of British India on the east." Possibly the first official training manual to include co-operation of air & land forces on the NWF (although largely devoted to land operations, i.e. road protection &c.), based on "long & constant experience of warfare on the NWF & is intended as a guide to the conduct of operations by the two services & to indicate how they can best co-operate to obtain their common object." Orig. mustard cloth covd. boards, printed title to sp., minor wear, generally VG, this copy issued to 10th Bn. 12th F.F. Regt. in July 1939, with their ink stamp & loosely inserted slip. Rare. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 57682] £125

10. Verbatim Report of The Debate on The Indian Civil Service in the House of Commons, June 29, 1875 [And:] Opinions of the Press on the Debate of the 29th of June, 1875, in the House of Commons, On the Indian Civil Service. 1st Ed., orig. printed wraps., 48pp., foolscap. J. Wakeham, Printer, Kensington. August 1875

Report of the debate plus press opinions contained in the last 10 pages. The debate particularly concerned "the position of the civilians in the N.W. Provinces of India" who felt that they were victims of a "scandalous breach of faith on the part of the Government," i.e. "Lord Dalhousie gave a pledge that half the Commissionerships & Assistant Commissionerships in the Punjab & Oudh should be given to the civilians of those provinces. But the promise has been flagrantly broken. Many of the best posts have been systematically conferred on military officers without any legal or scholastic education, & with no claim but the favour of some high dignitary at Calcutta..." Interesting debate on patronage in India & the ICS, with matter ranging all over India, not just the aforementioned territories. Wraps. somewhat foxed/stained, generally VG. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 54708] £45

11. The Bengal Obituary or, A Record to Perpetuate the Memory of Departed Worth: A Compilation of Tablets & Monumental Inscriptions from Various Parts of the Bengal & Agra Presidencies; to which is added Biographical Sketches & Memoirs of such as have Pre-eminently Distinguished Themselves in the History of British India since the Formation of the European Settlement to the Present Time. Facsimile reprint of 1851 1st Ed., orig. card wraps., ix+426pp. BACSA. 1983

This copy marked 'Amended Copy' to front, & is indeed so. VG & undoubtedly rare survival. Note: Genl. M.J. Tighe led the attack on Tanga in 1914 under the overall command of Aitken, & is one of few senior officers in the early part of the campaign in East Africa to escape Meinertzhagen's scathing criticism: "Tighe is a thruster, beloved by us all & clearly a fighting man. If he had commanded at Tanga, things might have been different." - Army Diary. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 58684] £75

A Diary of the Tirah Campaign

36. Tirah 1897: Personal pocket diary of Lt. C.H. Villiers-Stuart, 21st Regiment of Madras Infantry (Pioneers). A small leather covd. notebook, 140x90mm, containing diary of events between 14th Sept. 1897 ("Left Belgaum full of phiz and many boxes tiffin") & 31st November, including one small sketch of Shinawari Camp defences, together with delicate pencil sketch of Shinawari Camp, 180x110mm (annoted: "Sniping from here about 1000 yards from camp" &c.) with another sketch of the Shinawari-Karuppa Road on reverse, similarly annotated, together with a very fine cabinet card portrait of the diarist in the uniform of the 21st Madras Pioneers, 160x100mm, by S. Madheo & Son, Belgaum. The diary is written in pencil (the pencil still present in its holder on the spine of the notebook) in a tiny hand, but is accompanied by a modern, enlarged, scan, & a transcript, with footnotes, which I have compiled. A rare & interesting survival of the campaign, especially as there is no published history of the 21st Madras Pioneers & VS mentions various officers of his regiment (& others) by name. Approx. 3800 words.

Serving with the 2nd Division, the 21st Madras Pioneers' main task was to build the road from Shinawari Camp to the Sampargha Pass, after which the Army moved forwards & the regiment was no longer employed. For several months they toiled on the road & other projects, at the same time picketing their camps, building sangars & zarebas, & frequently under sniping or direct attacks by the Afridis. Some extracts: 29th Sept. 1897: "At work on road all day. Did all our part and then found P.W.D. [Public Works Department] hadn't done theirs and had to do it for them. Also more tomorrow. No food for men at all. 2nd Gurkhas come in from Fort Lockhart. Also no food. Convoy come in with telegraph poles. Rather indigestible. Got some eggs for dinner not much else. Everyone rather stuffy - Dinner improved everyone's temper." 21st Oct. 1897: "Rose at 2 a.m. Loaded all stuff on 720 mules, donkeys and ponies and marched off at 6:30. Rather confused two staff officers. Got about 300 yards along road. Stuck down in freezing cold bottom of valley for an hour. Took us till 12 to get to Kotal then we halted while the 2nd Gurkha Rifles, Dorsets, and Gordons went up to take Dargai heights. We could see as plain as print 1200 yards away. They worked up to open space and crossing over dropped all round. The guns had no effect as they were in such strong sangars. At about 3 the Gordons charged across and then Gordons, Dorsets, and Gurkhas all scrambled up together. Cowie up first. Total casualties officers: 3 killed, 8 wounded. Men: 35 killed, 163 wounded. After fight over we got orders to go up to S. Sok [Samana Suk] to hold it and no one to go on to Karappa. Brooking told me to go and load up mules with A [Anderson] as previous orders were to camp for night on Kotal. Then I went with one section to water. Left baggage at X. Tore off and found.... I went by lower road and sent section by top road. Waited till 6 when Hendley turned up. Had half potted meat, choc and biscuit. Waited till 9:50 when greatcoats, officers baggage, half mess, and a few rations turned up. Hendley took them on to find camp never having seen ground before and quite dark. I patrolled road till 3:30 but no more baggage came so started up for camp. About 200 yards away found Marsh and picket and fire. Coal [?] had been sent for me but I had been wandering down S. [Shinawari] road and he didn't see me. He told me the camp was about 3 or 4 miles away so I started off taking one man and fell on them about 2 ½ miles away. Found my blanket and turned in 5:15. Hendley and mules hadn't found B [Brooking] and Huggins [CO] and 3 Company and Bruce ... and rest were there by water. Brooking had turned up night before to get Sok [Samana Suk] in case enemy were making for it and it got dark too soon for the rest to find them." 23rd Oct. 1897: "Parade 5 a.m. for works on road back to Kotal. Worked till 2 and then came back. Had bath. First for days. Got 16 fowls and 64 eggs from villages, Pathan bread and corn. Had ... dinner anchovy eggs. Turned in 8:30, at 9:30 sniping began. At 10:15 attacks on camp. Heavy firing on N [North] and West. Jemadar L Khan and Kalistan hit. Bullet hit sandbag below head. Went out and fixed bayonets. Couldn't fire acct [on account of] troops on right and left. Turned in again 11 p.m. Enemy got 5 yards from Gordons' zareba. 9 bodies found. Hope some more killed." Note: I have transcribed this diary carefully, but a few words remain indistinct: the writing is largely clear but some dampstaining to the edges of some leaves render a few words difficult. Some of the entries are written in reverse order, presumably as VS has recalled recent events, & the original scribbled diary contains very little punctuation: some punctuation &c. has been added to the transcript in the interests of clarity. VS served in further campaigns & was Killed in Action at Gallipoli in 1915 while serving on Birdwood's ANZAC staff. See illustrations on our website. [Ref: 58671] £1,250

114. Letters of Arthur George Heath, fellow of New College, Oxford, & Lieutenant in the 6th Batt. Royal West Kent Regiment. With Memoir by Gilbert Murray. 1st Ed., [viii]+222pp., portrait frontis. Oxford: Blackwell. 1917

Heath was educated at the Grocers' Company's School & New College, Oxford, becoming a Fellow of the College, then travelled in France and Germany for a year before settling down to teaching modern philosophy. He obtained a commission in the newly raised 6th (Service) Battalion of the Royal West Kent Regiment in 1914, went to France in 1915 & was KiA on 8th October 1915, aged 28, in an attack on Gun Trench near La Bassée. He has no known grave and is commemorated on the Loos Memorial. Contains a memoir, letters in training 1914-15 and from France & Flanders June-October 1915, with much of interest on regimental routine & Active Service: "I would rather have a man take a little risk now and then, firing at what he thinks a loophole or a periscope, than remain forever huddled down behind the sandbags quite indignant if anyone on his side fires a shot, for fear that the Germans shall reply. That is the attitude of a lot of the ex-regular N.C.O.'s especially. This trench life in any case is not good for morale. How does anyone suppose the troops will face the open after it? I think I must take more men out on little expeditions at night, just to get them used to the absence of a parapet..." Orig. apple green cloth, titled in green to spine & New College crest to front. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 58580] £145

Stephen Henry Philip Hewett was born in India in 1893 (his father was in the Indian Telegraph Service), educated at Downside & Balliol College, Oxford: completing his third year in 1914 he went to Savoy for the summer where he witnessed the French mobilization and made his way home, commissioned in 11th (S) Bn. Warwickshire Regiment, but kept back when the Battalion went overseas, he eventually joined the 14th Battalion – the First Birmingham City Battalion – at the Front in February 1916 & was KiA leading his platoon in an attack between High Wood and Delville Wood on 22nd July 1916. He was twenty-three & is commemorated on the Thiepval Memorial. The book consists of lengthy 'diary letters' to his mother together with those to his sisters and various friends, containing, inter alia, affectionate descriptions of characters such as one Latham, the company officers' cook, and his horror at the first casualty he encountered: "his young freckled face was horribly smashed in by a bullet... I was severely shaken; but one has to get callous both in mind and body, and one does: and an hour's sleep revived me." Orig. paper covd. boards & cloth backstrip with paper label, eps rather browned, ffpf inscribed "Richard Trappes-Lomax with the Editor's 'Kind regards' P.F.H. Allsprings. 117. Two Men: A Memoir. 1st Ed., viii+302pp., 2 portraits, 4 plates. Oxford: Univ. Press. 1919

A joint memoir of E.H.L. Southwell & M.G. White, both of whom were masters at Shrewsbury School, & close friends who referred to one another as "Man" and were collectively known as "The Men." Both were commissioned in the Rifle Brigade early in the War, both were killed on the Somme and both are commemorated on the Thiepval Memorial. Evelyn Herbert Lightfoot Southwell was Ed. at Eton & Magdalen College, Oxford. He was a distinguished "Wet Bob" (or oarsman) at Eton. He became an assistant master at Shrewsbury in 1910. He was gazetted to the Rifle Brigade in 1915 & posted to the 13th (Service) Battalion at Perham Down, then to the 15th (Reserve) Battalion. Posted to the 9th (Service) Battalion in France on 30th Sept. 1915 & KiA 15/9/1916 near Delville Wood. Malcolm Graham White was born in 1887, Ed. Birkenhead School & King's College, Cambridge. He was briefly an assistant master at Marlborough before moving to Shrewsbury in 1910. He was gazetted to the 6th (SR) Battalion, Rifle Brigade in 1915 and posted to the 1st Battalion in France in January 1916. He was killed in action in the battalion's attack near Serre on 1st July 1916, has no known grave, & is commemorated on the Thiepval Memorial. Includes Southwell's letters written from Shrewsbury & the Front to various friends & family members, also diary extracts from France. The letters/diary give some impression of his experiences & refer to various friends on active service & several brother officers in his bn. Also extracts from White's diary kept on the Western Front. Fairly brief daily entries give some account of his experiences supplemented by extracts from his letters. Orig. paper covd. boards with paper label to front & black printed linen backstrip, VG. This copy includes a typed index of names of officers of the RB mentioned in the letters &c. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 57834] £90

121. ADAMS (H.M.) 1916-1918: A War Diary. 1st Ed., [vi]+145pp. Worcester: Printed by Ebenezer Baylis & Son for the Author. 1922
Rare privately published memoirs of Capt. Herbert Mayow Adams, MC, who was Ed. at Marlborough & Oxford, embarked for France with 2/8th Worcesters (TF) 24th May 1916. They were part of the 61st (2nd South Midland) Division, & served with this formation on the Western Front until the end of the war, including operations at Fromelles in 1916, the Ancre & Ypres in 1917, the German counter-attack after Cambrai & Somme 1918. By January 1918 Adams was commanding "B" Coy. & was awarded the MC; he afterwards commanded No. 4 Section, "B" Coy., 48th Bn. MGC in France & Italy during 1918. He did not play a part in any major offensives, but his very detailed, matter-of-fact, account of several years of trench warfare, much of it spent in 'quiet' but rarely uneventful sectors, provides a valuable account of war on the Western Front. He frequently mentions officers & men in his unit, & at the end are rolls of "B" Coy., 2/8th Worcesters & his machine-gunners in 48th MG Battalion, as well as a detailed index. Orig. pale mottled paper covd. boards with wheat cloth backstrip, titled in black to sp., VG & rare privately printed memoirs. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 58626] £275

Tuohy - war correspondent & intelligence expert - whose "The Secret Corps" (Murray, 1922) described some aspects of intelligence work in the Great War here provides his reminiscences of various events from work at GHQ in France to further afield. He travelled widely during the war & Falls states: "His sketches... are light & agreeable reading. Perhaps the best of them is 'The German Lawrence,' a description of Wassmuss, the celebrated German consul at Bushire who caused us so much trouble in Southern Persia. Another paper on Lawrence himself is original & suggestive." His work in Flanders & elsewhere, dealing with German prisoners & so forth, is also of great interest. Tuohy held a commission on the Special List & was employed under the Director of Military Intelligence at the War Office. Orig. black cloth, titled in red, VG & rare. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 58601] £145

254. WEST (A.G.) The Diary of a Dead Officer: Being the Posthumous Papers of Arthur Graeme West. Intro. by C.E.M. Joad. 1st Ed., xiv+96pp. The Herald. [1918].
Joad explains that at Blundell’s School at Tiverton (where West was ed. after a brief spell at Highgate) the latter was known as a “Worm” - the “universal designation [at Blundell’s] for anyone who regarded books as something other than work.” He was unathletic & his public school days unhappy, but he was much happier at Balliol. Initially he was turned down for a commission & enlisted in the Public Schools Bn., Royal Fusiliers, spent four months in the ranks in France, Nov. 1915-March 1916, then came back for officer training. Commissioned in 6th Bn. Ox. & Bucks, he returned to France in Sept. 1916, attained the rank of Captain & was shot by a sniper on 3rd April 1917. The book contains extracts from his “frank” diary throughout his service, describing his experiences & surroundings as well as his embracing pacifism, while remaining at the same time a dutiful and conscientious soldier. The final part consists of poems, some with war themes. Decorated paper covd. boards, gilt to spine and front, VG & scarce. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 58625] £145

260. WRIGHT (Capt. Peter E.) At the Supreme War Council. 1st USA Ed. (with new Preface by the author), [vi]+201pp., 8 portraits, fldg. map. NY: Putnam. 1921
Wright was an Assistant Secretary at the Military Section, involved with forward planning & predicting military requirements ahead, & Ian Beckett (in The First World War & British Military History) suggests that he only avoided “prosecution for revealing the deliberations of the SWC largely because it was felt that action would also have to be taken against FM Lord French...” Falls condemned it as an attack on Haig & eulogy of Foch & Henry Wilson, saying “in military matters he is a light-weight.” This edition includes a new specially written Preface in which the author responds to the “many & hostile critics” who had greeted the publication of the book in England. Also contains portraits of war leaders not present in the UK Ed. Orig. dark maroon cloth, gilt, sp. dull & hinges a little pulled o/w VG with author’s presentation inscrip. & monograph on half title: “To Tess From the Author. 285. Canada to Ireland: The Visit of the "Duchess of Connaught's Own." By A.M. Drysdale. 1st Ed., orig. pictorial wraps., 20pp., 7 photo. plates. (battalion on parade, &c.) T. Fisher Unwin. 1917

Commemorative souvenir of the visit of the Duchess of Connaught's Own Irish Canadian Rangers to Ireland in Jan. & Feb. 1917, when they received an enthusiastic welcome from Limerick to Belfast & were received everywhere from Catholic cathedrals to a dinner for the men at the Ulster Hall. The Irish Canadians, aka 199th Canadian Infantry Bn., did not reach the Western Front as a unit: arriving in England after their Irish tour they were absorbed into the 23rd Reserve Bn. within several months. This is, therefore, an unusual survival of the regiment's brief existence. Sl. soiled o/w VG. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 55743] £65

286. Captain Lionel Tudor Wild, "B" Coy., 7th (Service) Bn. Somerset Light Infantry: Killed in Action 30th November 1917 & Commemorated on the Cambrai Memorial to the Missing. Fair copy of journal & extracts from letters from France, 1915-1916, assembled by his Mother in a leather-bound notebook, 230x180mm, plus tipped-in portrait photos. in uniform, press obits. &c., plus several loosely inserted photos. & press cuttings.

Wild was commissioned in the 7th (S) Bn. SLI 28/1/1915, later advanced to Captain & was Mentioned in Despatches. He had previously been a Sgt. in the Surrey Yeomanry. He served with the 7th SLI in France & Flanders 1915-17 until missing in action 30/11/1917, his death was later presumed to have taken place on that day. A memoir compiled by his mother including 27pp. (6000 words) transcript of a diary-letter from France, August-Nov. 1915: sporadic but lengthy instalments, witty & informative record: "a sort of family letter which may be of interest to pass round to Aunts & Uncles &c." This is followed by press obits. inc. a letter from a private in his Coy. describing the circumstances of his death; a 2pp. letter, 1918, from a brother officer, on the news of the presumption of his death, then 16pp. (some 3000 words) extracts from letters from the Front. August 1915-June 1916. An extract from the diary-letter, describing a typical day in the trenches: "1 Hour before dawn: My 'observer' or my servant, or both in necessary come & shout into my ear 'Stand to just gone sir' - I roll out, & being very cross I go & make myself as objectionable as possible to any men I find not ready at their posts. I then proceed to stumble along the traverses occupied by my platoon, falling over everything that it is possible to fall over & keeping myself warm by my language. As this is the hour supposed to me most favourable for an attack, being a sort of half light, all the sentries think they see things which are not there, & usually see how much ammunition they can let off. As this gets taken up my all the other men who have just been roused up there is a considerable amount of noise going on which lasts till 'Stand down' 5 a.m. or thereabouts... 5.10 a.m. The officers retire for an early cup of tea & a cigarette. Just as I am thinking of turning in & really getting a little sleep one of the others comes up, & giving some more or less plausible excuse says 'I say old chap, I wonder if you would like to do the next turn of duty (4 hours) it really is my turn but...' 5.30-9.30: Tramp up & down the Company line, see the men's rations served out... have a good look at the German line through my periscope to see if there are any fresh developments..." And so the day goes on. In November "I took out my first patrol between the lines, for the purpose of finding out the thickness & also the state of repair of the German wire... It was a case of crawling all the way (about 350 yards) as there was a fairly large moon which made it necessary to take plenty of cover... Several times we were held up by large parties of the enemy which after several minutes breathless suspense turned out to be small bushes... eventually we reached our destination, & having cut off a piece of their wire... we retraced our steps, & got in after having been out about 2 hours..." An interesting & well-written description of trench warfare & a fine tribute assembled by his mother. Among other loosely inserted items is a printed slip from The Times newspaper with her advertisement pasted on: "To Officers & Others. Any information that can be given by anyone who saw Captain L.T. Wild, Somerset Light Infantry, when he was wounded on November 30 will be gratefully received by Mrs A.S. Wild, 21 Canning-road, Croydon." VG. See illustrations on our website. [Ref: 58672] £465

SECRET. Copy No. 132 (of 200 printed). Suberb report on the function & organisation of the famous Hobart's "Funnies" (which fought from Normandy onwards equipped with a wide selection of specialist armoured vehicles such as DD [swimming] tanks, Arks, Buffaloes, Kangaroos, CDL, AVREs, Crocodiles [flame-throwing tanks], Crabs [flails] &c.). Emphatically not an operational narrative (although the nature of operations, such as the seaborne assaults at Normandy & Walcheren, is of course alluded to). The divisional commander, Gen. Hobart states in the Introduction: "This Report deals with the weapons, tactical technique & organisation developed by 79th Armoured Division & used for the first time in the recent campaign... [it] is chiefly concerned with weapons & methods already proved in battle... it is suggested that these recommendations, based as they are on battle experience, should form the basis for current development & tactical practice... As the Division is unique & its organisation, equipment & employment were all novel, it has been necessary to record in detail the results & conclusions from the past year's campaigning. Hence the discouraging size of this Report..." The Report is divided into four parts: Part I, General Survey (Functions, Operational Employment, Conclusions on Types of Specialised Armour, Future R&D); Part II, Organisation & Tactical Technique (inc. sections on Seaborne Assaults, River Crossings, Assault Ops. on Land &c.); Part III, Technical Details & Recommendations for Improvements to Special Armoured Equipment; Part IV, Administration (RASC, Medical, Ordnance, Baths & Laundry, REME, Tank Replacement, Reinforcements, Ancillary Services & Welfare). Parts I-III each contain sub-sections on different vehicles. Also contains detailed Appendices & a very fine selection of photos. of specialist armoured vehicles in operational situations from the D Day beaches onwards, also various diagrams of equipment from wireless sets to bridgelayers, diagrams of organisation of division &c. Orig. red cloth, titled in gilt to front & spine. VG & rare. See illustrations on our website. [Ref: 58800] £950

Sir Douglas Gracey, former GOC 20th (Indian) Div. 1st Ed., xvi+258pp., portrait frontis., 18 maps (some fldg.). Privately printed at The Aberdeen Univ. Press. 1953
Tony Bickersteth was commissioned from OCTU in 1941 & volunteered for India: he was posted to 4th Bn. 10th Gurkha Rifles, then training in Ceylon, in May that year & served with the famous 20th (Indian) Division throughout its active service in Assam & Burma from 1943-45 apart from a short period from May-July 1944 recovering from wounds. He commanded "C" Coy. until wounded & "B" Coy. on his return. The bn. first patrolled the Kabaw Valley & fought in the Battle of Imphal, then advanced south to take part in the Irrawaddy Crossing (notably the ferocious fighting at Talingon in the bridgehead area) & on to Prome & almost Rangoon. The author maintained a diary on active service which he augmented & wrote up on his return to England, intending to pass it over to the regimental historian as source material. However, the book serves as an excellent battalion history in its own right. It was privately published by his father after his tragic death, killed by a lightning flash in the Savoy Alps in 1948. The first part of the title stands for One Damn Thing After Another. Orig. green cloth, gilt, very sp. sl. rubbed o/w VG. Scarce. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 58782] £125

324. DAVID (Dan C.S.D.) 74 Field Coy., Bengal Sappers & Miners, Burma 1942-1944. Carbon typescript, 13pp, foolscap., 1947.
A history of the Field Coy. from its raising in India early in 1942, training & deployment on the NWF then in the Arakan from August 1942 (1st Arakan: many months of uncomfortable front-line work with the 14th Division: bridging, building defences, sometimes holding the front line, &c.). After refit & leave 74 Coy. returned to Burma for 'Second Arakan,' now with 5th (Ind.) Div., for much more arduous front-line work. The account concludes in Feb. 1944 when the then CO (& writer of this account) was transferred to an Engineer Battalion. The account concludes with a roll of awards & casualties & is accompanied by a 1947 letter from the compiler to Cyril Gordon, who won an MC with unit in the Arakan (a & bar to it with Calvert's Chindit brigade in 1944): "Group HQ have been compiling a history of Bengal S&M in the war, & I have written up 74 Coy's story... I am sending you a copy of this, as you may enjoy recalling the old names..." Gordon is mentioned several times in the text. Together with several contemp. training manuals re delayed action fuzes, the A.P. (Anti-Personnel) Switch, Formulae & "K.G.V.'s O. Then a civilian architect in the Public Works Dept. at Singapore, Inglis describes the last days there - even with Jap tanks lapping at their door the British community believed they were invulnerable. Among those authorised to leave 48 hours before the capitulation, he was bombed on the quayside but escaped: "I travelled in 15 different boats... walked about 20 miles, went by lorry, bus, car & train & even swam for seven & a half hours, & arrived in Colombo possessing only the shirt & shorts I stood up in!" The first craft was sunk by bombs, he was pulled out of the water by Malay fishermen, continued by sampan, island hopping to Sumatra & finally picked up by a RN destroyer. On arrival in India he was commissioned in the RIE & died at sea in Feb. 1944. No. 27 of 100 copies printed for the family of Major Inglis "so that his friends may have a permanent record of his experiences." Rare & interesting account of escape from Singapore.
